

Elvis Impersonating Chauffeur Jailed For Cruelty

Contributed by Arlene
Tuesday, 23 February 2010

Chauffeur given a 14 week sentence after being sentenced for animal cruelty charges.

53 year old Harry Sutcliffe confessed to 23 counts of animal cruelty on his farm in the Bradford area. A local inspector who visited the location described it as one of the "worst scenes" she had ever seen.

The counts of neglect were recorded by authorities such as failing to provide clean water and leaving carcasses of dead animals in old sacks to rot.

The chauffeur that usually dresses up as Elvis or James Bond is also reported to be heavily in debt owing approximately 300,000.

After cooperating with authorities, Sutcliffe was banned from keeping animals for 5 years along with 14 weeks of custodial sentence.