

Start Your Own Limo Service

Contributed by Sergio Leon
Monday, 30 June 2008

Some Advice About Starting Your Own Limo Business Limousines are considered to be the latest trend in luxury transportation. Many events require vehicles that speak of luxury, elegance and style. By having a limousine available any time can definitely raise your public appearance.

To provide the ongoing demand for such private luxury vehicles, limousine rental companies are starting to provide private transportation to customers in and around all major cities across the US. If you are planning to join the trend, then here are some tips to save you money as you get started on this expensive venture.

If you want to earn the most profit possible, then you need offer service in a major populated location that has a large demand for limousines. You will first want to target big cities where major events and airport transportation are usually in high demand. Next, you need to decide if you want to build a website and market your business, or implement a private transportation business to start.

Limousine Advertising is necessary for a successful limousine company. In the long run, many limousine rental companies find it a VERY cost-effective venture to start a limo business website and provide service from the convenience of their homes -- avoiding rental costs for a place in the city or in purchasing a property for your very own.

Starting a home-based limousine rental company requires a phone line to receive calls from potential clients and customers about inquiries or to make bookings. Just a phone is not enough for a successful limo business. You will also need fax lines, mobile phones, and an answering machine.

You should put up a computer with an Internet connection if you plan to advertise with a limo website, as well as communicate with your customers through email or chat. You can also use your computer to keep booking records and appointments to keep you up to date.

Purchasing Limousines

Selecting fleet vehicles can be a difficult task. How to determine the limousine models you will be purchasing for your business is important. Limousines can be very expensive, and you must do a little research to avoid any regrets later on. Where to find limos for sale? Many places are available locally to find limousines, You can also use Ebay and www.LimoRecycler.com to search for new and used limousines for sale.

To begin, select a limo that fits many events that your client might require its use. White limousines are great for weddings, proms, anniversaries and birthdays to mention a few. However, Black limousines are very popular for most night time occasions, sporting events and funerals. You might also want to consider models that can accommodate larger groups, instead of focusing more on limo models that can only seat up to 8 people at a time but this depends on the target customer you are looking for in your service area. You might also include models that are well-suited for Bachelor Parties, Birthdays, Proms and other events like SUVs and Hummers.

Advertising Your Limousine Business

Your limo business website would not generate any traffic if potential clients and customer do not know about its existence. Advertise your limousine business by putting up listings in limousine directories such as: www.limodeals.com , www.limousinesites.com , www.limoyellow.com , www.limoraces.com and also use local advertising if you can afford it such as: local newspapers and travel magazines. If you are a novice with the Internet, then you might want to visit www.FreeLimoWebsites.com and have them create a Web site for your limo company, and provide you with the tools to have a great limousine website.